

Professional Maintenance by Design.

The design process is a complex, exciting, detailed and dizzying experience. There's a lot to consider. Every detail, every material, every colour... they all need thought and decisions to be made.

It's too easy to miss the details which will cost your time and money later. Either when you're implementing the new design or in the years to come.

Missing a small thing now can be expensive in both time and money.

But with needing to keep your eye on everything, how are you supposed to ensure you don't miss all the details. Well, just like you bring in experts to advise on architecture, electrical and decor, why not for maintenance and protection?

Your project through our eyes.

Inviting the NeroQom Squad to look at your project during the design or construction phases of a project will give you some surprising benefits.

We're experts in our field, taking advantage of that can help you to better results no matter what you're trying to achieve. Working with us can help:

- Make the finished project quicker and easier to maintain
- Reduce damage during work by advising on products and tools
- Keep your material warranty in place for longer
- Speed up handover by cutting your snaglist
- Ensure that materials work together and don't damage each other
- Help to plan future accessibility on your project reducing access costs and improving safety
- Work with you to predict the future and plan for it
- Give you a multi-year maintenance plan from exploitation on-wards
